Parade Planning Marches On

June 15, 2020

FORT WORTH – Considering the Coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic impacting the region, the Tarrant County Veterans Council met recently to assess the situation. “And we feel it’s important to provide an update on our position,” TCVC official noted.

The Council has decided to continue the march toward celebrating Veterans Day. “Your Council will go on planning with the City of Fort Worth for the November 11 Tarrant County Veterans Day Parade down Main Street,” Ken Cox, TCVC president states.

“We’re cognizant of the challenges our community faces dealing with the current contagion,” Cox adds. “We share everyone’s concern for the public’s safety. We’ll be working closely with the city to ensure all health and safety protocols are met. In the end, the final decision is the city’s and the TCVC will certainly respect that.

“We also realize the city has a responsibility to make such a decision at least 30 days before our November event, but the TCVC will continue its planning efforts throughout the coming months. We feel it’s critically necessary, if we’re to organize a quality event honoring all North Texas veterans.”

Updates about the Council’s efforts will be sent to area veterans’ service organizations, Tarrant County officials and business leaders. Also, the parade website is being updated and will launch soon.

“if you or your organization would like to donate in support of this effort, that would be greatly appreciated,” Cox said. The TCVC plans to continue its Give 100 campaign this year in recognition of the Disabled American Veterans organization marking its centennial.

“Thank you for your support of our Nation’s veterans and our parade efforts,” Cox concludes. “Please continue helping us by sharing the word about our planned parade. It’s all part of our salute to the national 2020 Veterans Day theme and vision of Veterans in Focus.”
